Roosevelt Considers Deep Sea Fishing Trip

WASHINGTON, April 21.-(A) President Roosevelt, it was learned today, is considering a short fishing trip in the Caribbean sea starting about May 1 from Charleston, S. C. It was indicated, however, the President would make the trip only if the congressional situation permitted. Should he go, it was said the President probably would board one of the navy's new 10,-000-ton cruisers at Charleston and cruise in the vicinity of the Lee-ward islands, where he fished on returning from the Buenos Aires onference in Dec huddle. Whether the subject of their discussion was some legal technicality involved in Burns' trial on 37 counts of bribery or merely an argument over where they should go for lunch, was not revealed. From left to right are W. R. Osborne, who was to appear in court under an attachment by the grand jury for contempt; Burns, George Finch, with back to camera, and W. R. Bentley, counsel for the ex-prizefighter.

Many advanced Anglo-Cathmen within the Church of England declared today its determination declared today its determination nize the validity of any ordina-

"to resist to the utmost the threatened disintegration of the Church of England."

The declaration was contained in a statement strongly criticizing the recent report of the church's commission on Christian doctrine.

The validity of any ordination but its own.

The report which the council criticized declared the Bible was not infallible, historical evidence for Christ's birth from a virgin mother, was inconclusive and the Church of England was bound to resist Papal claims.

The commission was divided on Carpenter, mayor pro tem.

TESTED FACTS ABOUT BREAD FRESHNESS

How long does bread stay fresh in your bread box? Merita, and Merita alone, dares to ask this question, because Merita stays fresh two to four days longer than other breads tested.

Here are the facts about bread freshness: Actual bread boxes - the same kind you use in your own kitchen - were placed in the Merita Research Laboratories. Into them went loaves of many different brands of bread, Merita included. Tests were made to determine their keeping qualities. Merita stayed fresh 2 to 4 days longer than all the other breads tested. "Baked-in Freshness," Merita's own baking method, is responsible for Merita's lasting freshness.

Text of Hugh Howell's Speech on Platform in Campaign for Governorship

The text of Hugh Howell's address last night, outlining the plat-form upon which he will seek the gvernorship of Georgia, follows in full: My Fellow Georgians:

I am a My Fellow Georgians: I am a candidate for Governor of Georgia.

I have traveled over Georgia many times. I have interviewed thousands of people in all walks of life. Everywhere I go, the people are talking of taxes, more taxes and heavier taxes. Everywhere there is a cry for relief from the ever-increasing burden is a vital factor in Georgia affairs. Taxes in Georgia have increased by leaps and bounds. A few years ago, our state was oper-ated on a total income of about or fifteen million dollars welve or fifteen million dollars. This has been increased gradually until the present administration took charge. Then it was that the lid literally blew off, and taxes by the hundreds of thou-sands and millions upon millions have been piled upon our people until we see the tragic result. Business Feels Unsafe. Today, no businessman in Geor-gia feels safe to make an investgatherer from the state capitol will do for him when he comes around to take out his outrageous toll. Prosperity only comes when everybody is working or has an opportunity to work.

You know the question of taxes

In Newnan, Ga., I proposed what is known as the Hugh Howell plan for old age pensions, as follows:

people are talking of taxes, more taxes and heavier taxes. Everywhere there is a cry for relief from the ever-increasing burden of taxation.

The first plank in my platform for Governor is a substantial reduction of taxes. I interid not only to cut down the expenses of our government and reduce the present taxes, but I am unalterably opposed to any additional tax of any kind.

You know the question of taxes.

The time has come in Georgia to stop making a political football out of our old people. They have been given promise after promise, and we see the sorry spectacle of thousands of our old people trudging each day to the court-house, to the Hurt building and to the state capitol, hunting for old age pensions which have been given promise after promise, and we see the sorry spectacle of thousands of our old people. They have been given promise after promise, and we see the sorry spectacle of thousands of our old people. county governments is on the verge of destruction. The authority of the county officials, county commissioners, county school boards of education and the welfare boards has been taken away from them and centered at the capitol.

Tam sorry that in the limited time that I have tonight on this radio station I cannot discuss the other planks in my platform.

The tendency on the part of the present administration is to the present administration is up take all power away from the counties. This tends to weaken and bankrupt them and to force them to consolidate or merge. It

With the revenue of the counties decreased by the homestead exemptions, some solution must be found to make it possible for the county governments to operate. This must be done without any additional local tax being imposed on the county governments to operate. This must be done without any additional local tax being imposed on the people. At the proper time, I will offer what I believe is the best solution of this prob-

It will offer what I believe is the best solution of this problem.

The next plank in my platform concerns the driver's license.

When a person buys an automobile, he pays a manufacturer's tox. which is added to the original cost of the car. He pays 7 cents a gallon as tax on his gasoline. He pays 1 cent per gallon on his motor oll. He pays city, state and county ad valorem tax on his car. and in addition he has to buy a tag. It seems to me that when a person pays all of these taxes, he should be furnished a driver's license fee, and let the State Highway Department pay the expenses of the state highway patrol, thus saving the people of our state nearly a million dollars. In doing this, I will stop the tendency of the legislature at each session to reach into the pockets of the people for just a penny, or just a dollar. The time to stop it is now.

The wild extravagance of the people from state income taxes whether there is a special provision for the exemption or not. Head said he had not sought to collect any taxes from the judges but merely asked for the opinion in order to clarify the situation.

Do you remember when the first 1-cent tax was placed on gasoline? The politicians said, "It's port. Write me your views about the planks of my platform which ond penny, the third penny, the I have discussed tonight. I want fourth penny, and so on, and each time they put another penny on gasoline, the politicians soothed us welfare and who are willing to and bankrupt them and to lorde them to consolidate or merge. It follows that the county unit plan would be destroyed and the populous centers would then control the government of our state.

The onslaught made upon the counties by the present administration has so weakened them that no one knows where the end will be.

The same thing applies to the serve that I may know who you are, and on September 14 let's put the affairs of Georgia into the hands of 7 cents per gallon on gasoline, and this administration very nearly put the eighth cent on, claiming "It's just a penny."

Re-establishment of Friendship Prior to War in Ethiopia Is Sought.

ROME, April 21 .- (A)-Franço-Italian conversations directed toward re-establishment of the friendship which existed before the Italo-Ethiopian war are scheduled to begin here tomorrow.

The way for the negotiations has been prepared by preliminary talks between Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano and French Charge d'Affaires Jules Blondel. Today's expected start of the formal discussions was delayed as Blondel awaited instructions from his government.

BANKERS URGED TO HELP FARMS INCREASE INCOME

Dean Chapman Tells Body New Crops and Methods Deserve Fostering.

Bankers of Georgia have the responsibility of promoting every possible enterprise that will maintain or increase the state's farm income "at a profit to all," Paul W. Chapman, dean of the College of Agriculture at the University of Georgia, declared yesterday at the close of the 47th annual convention of the Georgia Bankers' As-

Emphasizing livestock develop-ment, he said, "If the bankers are to become counselors and partners in this phase of agricultural development they must study live-stock farming—they must know as much about it as they know about cotton farming."

Julian T. Baber, of the United Julian T. Baber, of the United States secret service, told the group that "the amount of counterfeit money being passed is steadily decreasing," due largely, he said, to the vigilance of tellers in banks and secret service agents.

Haley Named President.

The two-day convention closed with the election of officers and adoption of resolutions. J. T.

adoption of resolutions. J. T. Haley, of Albany, was named president, succeeding Walter S. Cothran, of Rome.

Other officers are Herbert Huckabee, of Fort Valley, vice president; Haynes McFadden, of Atlanta, secretary; Freeman Strickland, of Atlanta, treasurer, and Judge Orville A. Park, of Ma-con, general counsel. The latter three were re-elected.

Dean Chapman told the bank-ers Georgia has three principal objectives with respect to farm-ing: "(1) We must find and develop new farm enterprises in order to maintain the farm income of the state; (2) with limited markets for all farm products, we can improve our economic condition most effectively by becoming more nearly self-sustaining, and (3) we must strive to make farming more profitable by increasing acre yields and unit production."

More Livestock Urged. Livestock, he said, offers greater state-wide possibilities for achieving all three of these objectives. During the past five years Georgia's income from livestock has increased 100 per cent, while farm income from all other sources has advanced only 30 per cent. He urged the bankers not to be "deluded by hese figures," however, and said the past five years have been a period of rising livestock prices; Georgia's farm income has not yet returned to the level of 1929, and the state today has less livestock than in 1920.

"It is my belief," the speaker said, "that Georgia's greatest op-portunity for profitable livestock expansion lies in the field of pork production. To produce more hogs, we must produce more pea-

More Feed and Pasture.

The educator expressed the opinion that "if we would have a profitable beef industry that can compete with other parts of the country at all times, we grow more pastures, more silage, and more hay."

"In my opinion, no farmer has any business buying beef cattle to fatten unless he has feed he wishes to market in the form of beef."

Dean Chapman revealed that at present Georgia has 71,743 farms without a cow, 73,332 farms without a dog, and 30,000 farms with-out a chicken.

Counterfeits Poorer.

Baber said the average presentday counterfeit cannot compare in excellence with the productions circulated many years ago, but explained, "notwithstanding this fact, current counterfeits, which are no better in appearance than cigar store coupons, are being passed with comparative ease."

He said veteran agents can almost instantly determine whether a new counterfeit note is the handiwork of a tyro, or an old

Explaining means of combating the note-raiser, Baber said a note should be recognized only by the portrait it bears.

"Therefore," he warned, "if you should receive a $20 note bearing a portrait of Washington, you should know that you have a $1 silver certificate altered to represent $20, for Washington's portrait appears only on a $1 note, and the proper picture on a $20 note is Jackson's."

Counterfeit Coins Greasy. "The average counterfeit coin," he said, discolors quickly, and has a greasy feel when rubbed between one's fingers. It is also light in weight and produces a dull sound when dropped on a hard surface." Baber predicted that "the day is not far distant when a study of printing and engraving values as applied to our currency system will be included in the curricula of our high schools and colleges."

The bankers adopted a resolution asking the legislative committee to have introduced at the next session of the legislature an amendment to the banking code, 'naming and defining exactly the holidays that should prevail in

The committee recommended the restriction of the holidays to New Year's, Washington's Birthday, July Fourth, Labor Thanksgiving Day, Christmas, Lee's Birthday, Davis' Birthday, Memorial Day, and Armistice Day.

ACTION-NOT WORDS-WANTED

Mayor Hartsfield takes an unassailable position when he calls on the Fulton grand jury either to take formal, legal action against any Atlanta police officers charged with graft, "mooching" or collusion with racketeers, or to end the series of charges levied against the

The mayor's viewpoint is that the reiteration of blind charges of corruption among law enforcement officers, unbacked by indictments or public presentation of evidence, merely gives the city and the force a bad name, redounding unfairly to the vast majority of officers who are, unquestionably, honest and true to their

For many months now the city has been regaled with blanket charges of graft in the police department. Various grand juries have conducted probes, but so far no indictments against any of the suspected officers have been forthcoming.

During the highly publicized investigation of the "numbers racket," some months ago, it was freely stated officers were known to have worked in collusion with the racketeers. Yet, when indictments were returned, it was only the lottery operators who were named. Not a single name of a police officer or deputy sheriff was found in the list. . . .

Now it has been openly stated that evidence in the possession of the grand jury implicates 78 or 80 police officers and former officers in graft of varying degree. So far, however, one alleged racketeer has been indicted, and is now on trial.

The infamy of the crime committed by an officer who accepts money from a criminal or racketeer for protection against arrest, is tar greater than that of the crime of the racketeer himself. In the latter case the man is merely pursuing his chosen career in life, unlawful that career may be.

In the case of the corrupt officer, however, he is false to his trust, recreant to his duty and faithless to his employers, the people. He is in the same category as the sentinel in wartime who betrays his comrades to the enemy

If there are officers in Atlanta thus guilty of partnership in racketeering and crime they must be weeded out of the force for the sake of the city and of every honest man on the force. They must be prosecuted and made to pay the full penalty of the law for their mis-

However, it is unfair to the city and criminally unfair to every honest policeman, to continue reiteration of charges of graft, without supporting those charges by indictments against

The grand jury owes it to the community either to back their accusations with action, or to absolve the entire force from blame and cease from further besmirching the fair name of the city and its law enforcement bodies.

EDUCATION NEEDS A RUDDER

Herbert E. Hawkes, dean of Columbia College at Columbia University, showed a clear insight into the real purpose of education when he told a group of prominent Atlantans thisweek that colleges and universities should be interested in more than the mere intellectual development of the student. He pointed out that institutions of higher learning should not overlook social and character development in the educational process.

Members of the teaching profession are coming to realize more and more they have fallen short of their true objective when they do no more than impart knowledge. Just as a workman must be trained in the use of a new implement, so must the youth of the nation be trained in the proper use of education. In the hands of the novice it may become an instrument of destruction; only when combined with character are its unlimited possibilities

One has only to look at the large number of educated criminals throughout the ountry to realize the truth of the dean's statement. One side of their lives has been developed out of all proportion to another, with the result they have become nothing but educated enemies of society. It might be said that character and proper social adjustment serve as a rudder to guide intellectual talents into the proper channels. With character as the rudder and ideals as stars the temporarily confused student cannot miss the proper port. As someone has said:

"Ideals are like stars; you will not succeed in touching them, but like the seafaring man on the desert of waters, you choose them as your guides and, following them, you reach your

THE LIGHT IS SPREADING

The senate unemployment committee, headed by Senator Byrnes, of South Carolina, has reported in favor of complete abolition of the undistributed profits tax. The committee declares that repeal of this business-penalizing levy would be of great aid in reducing unemployment, inasmuch as it would permit private industry and business generally to expand and increase activity, thus providing many new jobs for workers.

Reports from Washington state this development may not result in breaking the deadlock over the tax bill, between the house and senate. The house favored retention of the undistributed profits tax, at least in modified form, while the senate voted to repeal it entirely. The bill is now in conference committee, with this clause the principal point at

It is significant that Chairman Byrnes, of the unemployment committee, should urge abolition of the undistributed profits tax. For President Roosevelt has asked its retention and, hitherto, the South Carolinian has been regarded as a strong administration supporter.

The evil effect of this tax on business has been pointed out frequently. It hamstrings private enterprise by making it practically impossible to accumulate reserve capital, either as a safeguard against days of business depression or for the purpose of increasing plants and expanding operations. It thus works great hardship on the employed classes, in barring thousands of new jobs which could otherwise be created. Many students of economics have blamed the new depression largely upon this hampering tax.

It should be plain to everyone that the first objective of a nation seeking a way out of economic troubles should be to encourage private enterprise and business as a whole. Under the American social system it is upon business the welfare of the country rests. Good or bad business is the measuring rod by which the welfare of all the people is appraised. When business is good there are plenty of jobs, few are idle and everyone prospers. When business is bad the lists of unemployed increase, people lack necessities of life and there is growing stagnation in all the marts of trade.

Obstructions, such as the tax in question, to the growth of business are obstructions to the economic well-being of all the people. What the nation wants is good and expanding business. That is all. It would seem simple logic not only to remove obstacles to the forward march of business, but to help, to urge and to cajole, if necessary, business growth.

JUST A FINESSE

When learned jurists suggest to grand juries they investigate rumored violations of the antigambling laws by bridge-playing women, the gesture becomes, in the final analysis, merely an example of that well-known maneuver of the card tables known as finesse.

For there can be little doubt any grand jury will hesitate long before molesting the womenfolk of their community in one of the favorite recreations of the day. Even should the jury go through the motions of investigation, it can be not much more than the ancient American art of bluff. Attempting to bluff the bridge gamblers into a semblance of restraint.

For bridge is a social custom. It is, today, as established as gossip and afternoon tea drinking in England. It has become one of the social fixtures. And when the women want to add a dash of paprika to their game by playing for pennies, or dimes, as the case may be, no mere men, judges, grand jurors or what not, practice.

True, there is no technical difference, in the eyes of the law, between the bridge gambling women and the craps shooting negro boys down

But who will argue that all the efforts of the law have succeeded in ending the game of the dice throwers? He would be foolish who would contend that the pleading cry to Little Phoebe is heard no more in the land. Just so, all the dignity of the law will not stop the women from counting up their bridge points and, after dividing by ten, fishing around in their handbags for the loose change needed to pay debts created out of overbids.

A war debt "gesture" to America is being urged in Britain. Something, we imagine, between a "so sorry" and a look of faint recogni-

The Italo-British pact is hailed as a triumph for the realities. Chamberlain concedes the Italians are in Ethiopia, while Il Duce recognizes the Norman conquest.

Under the new spring schedule, and until further notice, the Spanish war is over on Tuesdays and Fridays.

Repercussions of the Vienna coup are felt locally. All over town, paperhangers are arriving and taking over households entire.

Another pact has been signed in disorderly Europe. It is too soon to try to estimate

Editorial of the Day WHO WILL ANSWER THIS?

(From the Montgomery Advertiser.)
Speaking of "differentials," as many people are, what's the matter with the bull's-eye shot of Henry J. Saunders, railway costs expert from Washington, who said at the Birmingham hearing that "operating conditions are such that the expense of traffic per unit in the south is less than in the eastern district"? If that assertion is true, and we doubt if it can be gainsaid, then why should the Interstate Commerce Commission hesitate longer to grant the southeast's prayer that discriminatory freight rates be abolished They should be abolished even if the transportation costs in the south were equal to those of the east. A nation-wide survey clearly indicates that the public was not of-fended by excerpts of the film which were reproduced in a recent issue of Life magazine. Although Life was banned from the newsstands in many communities, an everwhelming majority of adults who saw the photographs in the magazine did not consider them indecent, and approved thoroughly of their publication.

The survey was conducted by the American Institute of Public Opinion among a representative cross-section of the voting population in all parts of the country. The Institute estimates that, during the first ten days after copies of Life were put on sale approximately 17,000,000 adults saw the childbirth pictures in the magazine. FAIR ENOUGH An Einstein Feels No Need of Proving Himself Superior To a Hitler

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

On the hot mud flats of the Nile, far south of civilized Egypt, lives a tribe of naked savages, black-skinned by nature but now a hideous gray-brown by reason of ashes and filth rubbed on their hides in the name of art.

These specimens, you would say, represent the human race at its worst. But they are proud and their heads are held high, for they regard themselves as superior beings.

What is the source of their pride? What makes them feel superior? The answer is found in human nature, which is the same in Africa as in America.

"How superior we are," they say, "to these low-down people up the river. They don't even know enough to cover their skins with ashes and dirt." That seems extravagantly absurd, yet we all use the same method to bolster our self-respect-and often with as little reason

If you have your normal share of vanity, you feel superior to your neighbor. Have you ever tried to analyze that claim to su-periority and discover whether it has any basis in fact?

You feel superior, first, because of your family. Well, you had a wonderful mother and a good father and your grandparents were respected and successful, and such advantages should make you a good specimen. But some warty little apples grow on the best trees, so your family's excellence is no proof of your superi-

Perhaps you had more schooling than your neighbor. That often indicates superiority, but some stupid and worthless men have impressive diplomas, so again nothing is proved.

Have you more money than your neighbor? Alas! There are nit-wits and rogues who have more. Family, education and wealth indicate what you should be, not what you are.

If you must feel superior to your neighbor, find evidence that you are a finer man—more honest, more truthful, more generous, more tolerant, more useful, braver, nobler, kinder, cleaner—and free of foolish vanity. If you are all of that, you have the decent pride every man needs and it isn't necessary to prop your self-respect by making comparisons that belittle your neighbor. (Copyright, 1938, for The Constitution.) THIS MORNING

An important step in ending the Chaco dispute was a proclamation issued by me on May 28, 1934, pursuant to a joint resolution of the congress. It prohibited the sale of arms and munitions of war in the United States to Bolivia and Paraguay.

After the proclamation, the administration continued its efforts to assist in the achievement of a settlement. On July 12, 1934, the United States, Argentina and Brazil proposed a peace plan to the belligerents which was not adopted. The efforts of the League of Nations to bring about a peaceful settlement were also unsuccessful, and in fact resulted in the with-

MACON, Ga., April 21 .-- (AP) Judge Charles L. Bartlett, 83, who was an unusual figure in congress for years, died of influenza here today.

Judge Bartlett represented this district in congress for 20 years. He was born in Monticello January 31, 1853, son of a former at-torney general of Georgia and an officer in the Confederate army. He was a graduate of the Uni versity of Georgia Law scho the University of Virginia, He was an honor graduate at Georgia in the class of 1870.

Wartime Incident. His talent for persuasion cropped out early, for at the age of 11 he pleaded with Colonel O. O. How-ard, Yankee officer under General Sherman, so effectively that the Bartlett home was ordered spared from plunder on the northern army's march to the sea. "They've never reconstructed me," Judge Bartlett once boasted. He began the practice of law here in 1875, first being associ-ated with Colonel Sam Hall and W. A. Lofton, and later forming a partnership with Washington Dessau Sr.

He married Miss Emma Leila Carlton, of Athens, in 1873.

Jurist and Congressman.

In 1877 he was solicitor general of the Macon circuit. He held a seat in the general assembly four years, and also served in the state senate. He was appointed to the bench in 1892, and after two years' service resigned to run for congress. His candidacy was success-Numerous stories have passed the extension of service to all parts of the known world. Today-the telephone is an accepted necessity, and the quality of Bell telephone service is known as the best in the world. Long distance telephone service is available to almost everywhere on the earth, even to many liners at sea and to some passenger airplanes.

The public demand for service now requires a plant investment totaling 251 millions of dollars in the South. In 1937 telephone employes received about 26 million dollars in wages, and the business paid some 7.9 million dollars in taxes.

Tomorrow-telephone service may reasonably be expected to continue to keep a step ahead of changing conditions. The physical apparatus will change-largely through the dependable efforts of the Bell Telephone Laboratories. But the spirit of telephone people will remain unchanged, and their aim in 1938 will continue to be an unceasing effort to provide more and better telephone service, at the lowest cost consistent with the safety of the business.

First of all, tropical worsteds. You've been wearing regular-weight suits right along, and you like the way they look, but it's beginning to get a little warm for them. Maybe you don't want to make the shift right into the whites and pastel-colored summer suits. In that case the tropical worsteds are the thing for you—they look like regular worsted or woolen suits, unless you examine the cloth closely, in which case you notice that the weave is more open—as well as the fact that the fabric is much, much lighter.

Next you so into the cloths that are of special summer weaves—the Palm Beaches, Nor-Eagt cloth, etc. These are the string and getting away from the old idea the extreme worsteds.

DEANNA DURBIN SINGS AT FOX

Lovely Deanna Durbin, who has made three box-office hits in three Hollywood efforts, opens at the Fox today in the third of the series—"Mad About Music."

This 15-year-old girl has turn-ed into a finished actress as well as a singer of note, if Hollywood reports can be believed prior to seeing the show. For the first time, Deanna is co-starred with debonnaire Herbert Marshall, and Gail Patrick, the Birmingham girl who won her Hollywood chance through an Atlanta movie contest,

WARDEN LAWES' STORY

Warden Lewis E. Lawes, of Sing Sing, has written another prison drama which has been produced under the title "Over Prison Walls." It opens today at the Georgia theater.

The story concerns a boy, sent to prison on a frame-up, who be-comes embittered and fights back until John Litel and his sweetheart, June Travis, persuade him not to take chances and wait his time. Dick Foran is the framed boy, who finally wins fame singing over a prison broadcast.
Others in the cast are Dick Pur-

Display Is in Connection With Meetings to Emphasize Book's Study.

A series of meetings to emphasize study of the Bible will be started on April 24 in approxi-mately 70 Atlanta churches, the services to be continued through May 22, under the auspices of the American Bible Society, it was nnounced yesterday.

The Rev. Benjamin H. Smith, district secretary of the society, said exhibits showing Bibles printed in more than 40 different languages will be placed in windows of downtown department stores, in the Y. M. C. A. building and in the Butler street Y. M. C. A. for negroes. Of the total churches in which the series will be held, 30 are negro congregationals, Mr. Smith said. Speakers will include the Rev. Rome A. Betts, associate secretary; Dr. Eric M. North and Dr. George William Brown, general secretaries of the national society; the Rev. Edwin H. Bookmyer, field secretary; the Rev. Benjamin H. Smith, district secretary; the Rev. D. H. Stanton, division secretary; Bishop W. A. Fountain, M. L. King, Bishop J. S. Flipper and the Rev. F. R. Carter.

Last year the Atlanta section of the society distributed more than 345,000 Bibles, Mr. Smith said yesterday. He added that the national society publishes Bibles in more than 1,000 languages and dialects and has 340 workers in 40 different foreign countries.

No doubt Sammy McConnell, 11-year-old son of the Evan McConnells, will ride off with first honors when he circles the ring riding his handsome mare, Gypsy Melody. Sammy is considered one of Atlanta's outstanding youthful riders. He won the blue ribbon in the horsemanship class at the recent Tampa show, and was winner of several other ribbons in the shows presented in Florida this spring.

The christening robe was worn this spring. Cheering the Atlanta riders to victory from boxes surrounding the Macon horse show ring will be Jessie Strickland, Elizabeth Jones, Billy Appleby, Justice Mar-tin and Marilyn Lockwood, who will accompany the Atlanta riders to Macon today.

RAYMUR GRANT has been attending the Cours Maintenon school in Cannes, France, ever since last January. She spent the Easter in Paris with her cousins, Birdie and Olive Pratt, who have been abroad for several years.

Raymur writes that Birdie is well on her way to fame, having developed an exquisite voice, and is singing over a radio station in Paris. Raymur is the attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Spottswood Grant, and has enjoyed many pleasurable experiences during her school life in France.

EAVING the first of May for a delightful motor trip to New Orleans will be Martha de Golian and her mother, Mrs. F. E. de Golian. Mrs. de Golian is a former resident of New Orleans and she is joyfully anticipating this sojourn there, as well as the pleasure of introducing Martha to many of her friends and revisiting favorite little patios and shops. Sally predicts that this popular pair will be central figures at many informal gatherings prior to their return to Atlanta the second week in May.

A LOVELY portrait of Julia Colquitt Bridges will be exhibited in San Francisco on May 10 and 11. It is being painted by Dr. Herbert L. Treusch, whose artistic work in oils has won much acclaim.

The three-quarter-length portrait depicts Julia wearing a royal blue evening dress, and is painted against a deeper blue background. The colors bring out the brown glow in her expressive eyes, and the tints in her auburn hair, which Julia wears in a long bob.

Answer. There are lots of things to do about that mantel. The easiest and cheapest is to paint it the color of the woodwork. Since the room is sunny you could use light grey for walls and woodwork. Maybe striped paper, not too dominant, in light greys and white would be the thing, then woodwork and mantel in a pale grey. Your rugs would seem quite interesting and different with this background. We'd have the sofa in a fine deep red with a pair of round cushions in a grey textural fabric. The two wing chairs might be pleasant in red with a deep rope fringe of grey around the bottom (this fringe could go on the sofa, too). One of the other chairs we'd like in dull gold, and one in a grey herringbone slip cover Accessories we'd like in cover. Accessories we'd like in brass. And they'd be best in large ominant sizes. The curtains we'd have in white made very full and to fall softly to the floor. A valance of several rows of the grey fringe could be added. Over the mantel have something bold and compelling. A large dramatic picture . . . a mirror with a wide gold frame . . . or fine gold brackets to hold pots of abundant trailing ivy. Avoid in this room a lot of little as they will be too distracting. Lamps with brass or pot-tery bases and white shades would be our choice.

My mother was a widow with a big family of children and very little money. As fast as we got to the place that we could work we guit school and earned something to help her with the younger children. Consequently I had very little education. My husband knew this when we married and then he wasn't embarrassed at my ignorance. Now it's a different story. He calls me dumb and criticizes mother for having let breath says he loves me in spite of my dumbness. I am so un-happy I wish I could die or leave him but honestly I am afraid of him. If I could be free once again and get back to my where they don't mind my mistakes everybody would be better off. Let me know what you think is the best thing

Naturally you don't want to be a source of embarrassment to him, even if he is being embarrassed by his "better," and it will be a simple matter for you to get a good elementary education right where you are. Then ask him to write to his state university and get a correspondence course for you to follow at home, with his help. Or, if he can afford to have a teacher come to the house and give you lessons in the afternoon, this might be a good plan.

And don't skip the newspapers magazines, radio and moving pic tures. They are not only aids to happiness but they are aids to ed-ucation and culture. An ambitious woman can get a load of learning from these things, including al-most unbelievable stories of people who have overcome every handicap in working out their head, heart and home problems.

Once you lift your head up and let your husband feel that you are anxious to please him and make him proud of you, you won't want to die but will want to live and learn. Incidently you have a great opportunity to teach him some things he should know: 'noblesse oblige,' for instance, which in plain English means that the more advantages a man has the kinder he should be to those who have had fewer.

THREE VERY DIFFERENT STARS OWE IDENTICAL LEG MEASUREMENTS TO SAME EXERCISE.

Three of the prettiest pairs of legs in pictures belong to stars so different in type and structure that you would never imagine them having leg measurements exactly the same. Eleanor Powell, Ginger Rogers and Alice Faye certainly do not look alike, and a check of their weights, heights and measurements results in three very different sets of figures—except for the legs.

When you think about it, you can understand why. Beauty depends upon proportion and proportion depends, mainly, upon exercise. That the Rogers, Faye and Powell limbs are perfectly proportioned is evident from these measurements: Thigh, 19 1-2 inches; calf, 12 1-2 inches; ankle, 8 inches. More important than weight or structure is the back-ground of dancing which these

The regular exercise afforded by the inexorable routine of dancing is the main factor in the perfection of these famous legs. Even when Eleanor Powell and Ginger Rogers lose weight, as they often do in the making of a picture, their limbs remain shapely, thanks to beautifully developed musculature! But if you are the average person, the dancing you do is not enough to matter and that curve from calf to ankle could be im-New Spring Fashion Note proved. For too thin legs there are developing exercises in which the muscles are contracted. Pedaling a bike combines contracting exer-cises with stretching, and is fine on dry hair to give extra gloss.

It's easy to use. Just rub the leg exercise, but if you are pri-marily interested in developing your legs, stick to contracting ex-ercises in which the toes are pointed. Try walking up and down stairs on your toes. Your Figure, Madame! MY DAY

WILLIAMSBURG, Va., Wednesday.—Last night we held the last of the big dinners of the year. Senator Frederick Hale, of Maine, took me in to dinner and remarked: "Don't you get terribly tired

As a matter of fact, everybody gets tired of any one occupation, whether it is work or entertainment. Whoever wrote the ancient saying. "Variety is the spice of life," knew the nature of human beings quite well. Merely going to work at the same hour every day, even if the nature of the task you perform is varied, is eventually tiresome, Anything repeated over and over again brings people to the point where they are stale and need a change of environment to vary their thoughts.

I have often wondered how it was possible for actors and actresses to throw themselves completely into their parts night after night. I imagine their salvation is an ability to live the part as though it were a new thing each night.

There was a well-known lecturer, I am told, who covered this country from coast to coast and gave the same lecture over and over again in exactly the same words with the same voice intonations and gestures. Apparently, he was always able to draw crowds and hold them, so he couldn't have been bored himself. But to me that is entirely inexplicable. I can talk on the same subject if I am getting a new slant on it from other people, or am able to draw something new out of my own head about it. However, I know quite well that I haven't the gift which makes it possible to perform that repetition stunt and keep it fresh and interesting to others as well

In the matter of entertaining or of work, I have never had such a complete dose of either one that I found myself getting really bored. Whatever work I am doing is interesting, because it is a game to find time enough to do it, and the same holds true for

If I did nothing else, of course, I would be bored, but to meet the demands the month of April puts upon the hostess in the White House and, at the same time, meet the inner urge to get out on the open road, is another game and there is never a dull moment try-

The country is beautiful. The sheep and the lambs, the cows and the calves, all look frolicsome and I feel the need to be a poet. There is nothing more worth putting into rhyme than the first take-off on the open road in the spring sunshine with everything so "new and young and all," as Mr. Kipling would say.

Children's Broadcast By Junior League.

The radio committee of the Junior League, of which Mrs. Bonneau Ansley is chairman, invites all young children to listen to a special children's broadcast which will be presented this afternoon at 4:46 o'clock over the Carnegie Library Children's Hour. The presentation will be the story of "Diddie, Dumps and Tot," originally written a half century ago by Louise Clarke Pyrnell and adapted for the Junior League dramatization by Mrs. Sid Har-

Taking part in the play will be Mesdames Hardie, Robert Peg-ram IV and Gaston Gay in the title roles; Mesdames Howard Candler Jr., Dwight Ross and Sidney Daniel, cast as three young slaves, and Mrs. Stockton Broome and Mrs. Hardie as plantation characters. The musical accom-paniment will be furnished by Miss Mary Bryan and Mrs. Broome will be the narrator.

The locale of the story is a colorful slave-holding plantation of the old south and the play is one of especial appeal to young children.

NEW. YORK, April 21.—The most encouraging feature of the current trading in stocks is the tendency for volume to fall off on reactions and to rise on rallies.

In this month to date, there have been four sessions in which the turnover exceeded a million the turnover exceeded a million there on three of these down the shares. On three of these days, the market advanced and on one it declined. The decline came on Monday, April 11, but the advance on the preceding Saturday had been violent, amountiting to 5.75 points in the Dow-Jones industrial averages.

Turnover in Stocks.

That was the largest swing for any one session in the month and was based on both inflation rumors and on the defeat of the reorganization bill in congress, two influences which might have been expected to neutralize each other.

Utilities Are Aided.

The utilities were helped Thurs-day by reports from Washington of a more friendly feeling toward the industry in high circles. It was not the proposal to loan the light and power companies government money that affected the market so much as it was the inference that at long last there was a prospect of lessened hostility.

Consumer demand for automobiles is improving, but fresh out-break of labor troubles has held the motor stocks back. The favored speculations now are the aircraft stocks. One day this out of the 15 most active issues, seven were connected with the aviation industry. Travel by air is the one field in which transportation is increasing.

The government bond market in a remarkable demonstration Thursday ran up into new high ground as the banks, or perhaps dealers anticipating what the banks would do, rushed in to buy. At that time the market was without information as to just how the secretary of the treasury proposed to use the desterilized gold. Meanwhile the new Consolidated Edison issue went to a premium in overther went to a premium in over-the-counter trading. Incidentally, that offering does not represent new money, but a refunding operation only.

CHICAGO, April 21 .- (AP)-Authoritative unofficial estimates excelling by 11,000,000 bushels the government's April 1 Kansas harvest forecast did much today to cancel brisk wheat price gains At first, a buying rush associated with nervousness over drouth damage in Italy and with overnight export purchases of 500,000 bushels from North America hoisted values 1 3-8 cents. On the upturn, however, offerings increased, bidding dwindled fast,. and setbacks carried the market to fractionally below yesterday's latest figures.

Prospective liberal receipts of corn here acted as a weight on corn values. European shipping purchases totaled only 200,000 bushels.

Rye tumbled 3 cents from early top quotations on absence of de-mand after previous speculative sellers had filled requirements.

NEW YORK, April 21 .- (AP)-Quiet strength in utilities kepf the stock market on balance today and tended to offset further mild backsliding tendencies of industrials. The general list assayed a mild rally at the start but, with the exception of power company issues, the trend soon turned downward. Steels, motors and most other groups moped throughout the session at slightly lower levels.

Also, both large and small private landowners must be taught the elements of selective cutting and management. These problems involve changing the outlook of the present generation of owners.

Forests Denuded.

"Years ago we had thriving sawmill and crosstie industries here in the south. These industries furnished wages for many people and brought a lot of wealth to this part of the country. You know too much about the denuding process which followed in the wake of these industries for me to mention, but I mention them merely because we are faced with the same situation in our pulpwood industry, which is now developing. We should welcome this industry, as it can be made a great blessing to us, but we should leave no stone unturned to avoid recurrence of the devastating processes which were so common in the development of our earlier industries. So there is real need to extend practices of timber farming, both in Georgia and the south as a whole.

Brown foresaw unusual opportunities in the south for farmers who, he said, "appear destined to follow a course of curtailed cotton and tobacco production." He sug-gested that acres being thus retired and all available depleted forest areas should be planted in He'll go from Knoxville to Chattanooga Monday and watch the Lookouts and Crackers begin their series.

So far he has attended games at Little Rock, Memphis, Birmingham and Nashville. Southern league magnates can't say of Scott that "we never see the president." They already have seen a great deal of the progressive Atlanta sportsman.

And this is only the beginning. He expects to make the swing several times during the season. He is keeping a close tab on the umpires and maintaining an intimate contact with club presidents.

He is a willing listener and readily takes any suggestions which are for the betterment of league affairs. There apparently is no opposition to the Scott regime now. He and Tom Watkins, over at Memphis, have straightened out former differences and the league now seems 100 per cent behind him.

So when the next election comes around, the Scott ticket may be expected to win rather easily and in 1939

Anglo-American Combine Enters British Polo Meet NEW YORK, April 21.—(P)—An Anglo-American combination with Cecil Smith, the 10-goal Texan, riding at Number 2, will be among the entries in the British open polo championships at Hurlingham in July say they will move to another Florida resort. Diamonds have from the Los Indios team of Galibeen offered the old-timers in Bartlett Park.

the office of the president will be established in At-

Scott and Fay Murray, Nashville president, sat to-gether at today's game. Murray opposed him at the last election, but he is for him and his forward-looking program all the way now.

Joe Engel, at Chattanooga, and the new regime at Birmingham, both Scott opponents last January, will throw their sup-port his way henceforth. So a long and popular term of office

THE CRACKER NEEDS.

It becomes a bit obvious that Atlanta will have to go into the market for a couple of pitchers if any progress is to be made in the direction of making a serious bid for the pennant. That is, Atlanta needs a couple of pitchers who can be exected to win. And if improvement is not made in the hitting department soon, addition of a right-handed gentleman who can pound the baseball may be expected. The season still is in the formative stage and the league does not have any one team that looks as if it can make a runaway of it. Chattanooga can't, and Chattanooga has the most power.

The Crackers have been handicapped, thus far, by the fact that the older members of the club, rather than the rookies have failed to come thereof.

the rookies, have failed to come through. Their unsteadiness has affected the play of the team in general. Still, the season is young and a couple of additions would make a real contender out of the Atlanta club. A closer race is being viewed. No one team is going to stand out over the other in a markedly superior manner, in the opinion of observers.

The Crackers should be able to finish in the first division with largely the same club as at present, but it won't win a pennant. One is forced to reach such a con-clusion because of the below-standard play of certain of of the older Crackers. Should matters change on this trip, the outlook would be changed. But the Crackers can't keep on giving games away and failing to hit in the clutch and expect to be serious contenders when other clubs strengthen. It's possible that addition of two pitchers would take care

SMOKIES MAY RISE.

There are at least two clubs in the Southern league that may ind themselves in embarrassing positions. That is, below the Knoxville Smokies in the standings.

The Smokies, who starred in the Grapefruit league and carried on in the opening series to the consternation of the Crackers, have definitely improved.

Birmingham and Nashville have gone back. So there is good reason to believe the cellar will be cleaned out for a new occupant. President Scott was talking about the Smokies today and expressed delight that they have picked up. It will be good for the league.

On the other hand, it is not so good for Birmingham to be down. It's a great baseball town when a winning team is offered. The Barons expect to improve, with help promised from the Chicago Cubs.

KREHMEYER VISITS.

Dutch Krehmeyer, who played shortstop on Atlanta's pennant-winning team of 1925, was a visitor here today. Dutch recently sold his bowling alley interests in Ohio and is now iving a life of ease.

He says he feels sometimes like getting back in the game as a coach or umpire.

TARZAN THE FEARLESS

Force is the law of the jungle, among beasts and men. By that law Jeff Biggers had lived out many years in the African wilderness as hunter and trader. And when he found himself confronted by superior force, it was his practice to take refuge

No. 77

Here alone in the jungle, no law governed him and Mary Brooks. He might take her in his arms and claim her for his own. No! That he could not do. It was Jeff Biggers' only redeeming trait that he had an awesome respect for this wholesome, in-

Like many men who had wandered the corrupt by-ways of life, he looked forward to the day when he could honorably take such a girl as this for his wife, a girl who represented all the virtues he did not possess. But Mary would not listen to his

Senate Approves Report on Supply Measure.

WASHINGTON, April 21.-(AP) An international conference should be arranged in an effort to save the arming world from bank-ruptcy, Senator Vandenberg, Republican, Michigan, told the senate during an attack on the administration's big navy bill.

He contended the proposed expansion of the United States fleet might cost far more than the $1.-156,000,000 which officials have estimated.

Interrupting its debate, the senate approved a conference report on the $546,866,000 regular naval supply bill. That appropriation measure goes now to the White
